

For over 20 years the Backyard Tree Farm has served as a way for New Mexicans to learn how to care for their piece of the forest.

Come join us for the following event:

Caring for Your Trees!

Presentation by: George Duda, Retired State Urban Forester

Saturday, September 25th, 2010

9:00 a.m. to Noon

At

Starfire Tree Farm

150 Oak Flat Road, Tijeras, NM 87059

281-9577

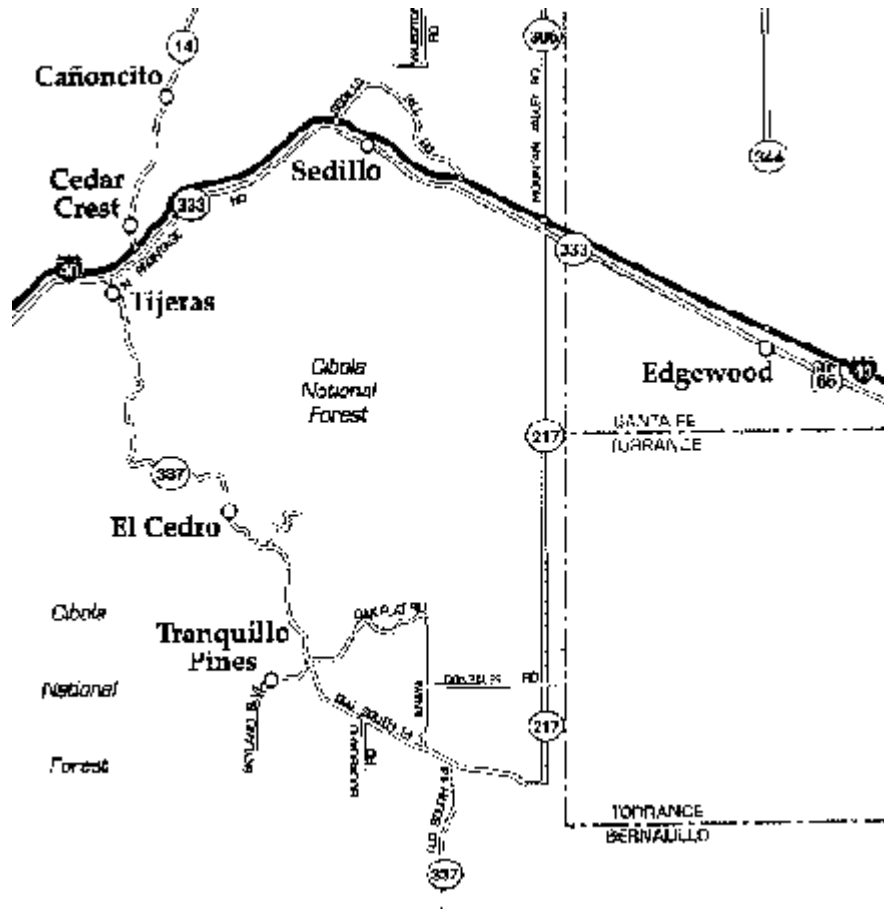

(Directions on the back)

Even in the desert southwest, the trees you choose to keep on your property can thrive and George Duda is just the man to show you how with over 40 years devoted to taking care of trees. This workshop will combine the presentation with practical application. The focus will be on how to keep the trees on our piece of the forest healthy including how to decide what trees to thin out on your property (Determining healthy vs. unhealthy trees and the appropriate density for the area), how to better care for the trees you choose to keep on your property (tools you need and how to use them) and how to plant new trees (techniques for success).
